SUBJECT: "What Spices Can You Grow at Home"?

BODY:

Hey,

{YOUR NAME} here. I hope you are coming along great with setting up your spices at home.

Recently a subscriber wrote and reminded me of some spice basics...

They bought a tall but narrow shelf to store their spices in small jars with a good seal. Try using jars that are about 3-4 inches high and

You just need to make sure that you can put an easy to see label on. Trust me, you don't want to mistake the cumin for the cinnamon because you cannot read the writing!

Have you considered growing some of the spices at home?

When you grow your own spices, it keeps them in your mind and you won't forget to use them. You can also save a few dollars by growing your own, plus if you have children, they will love planting the seeds. Children love gardening, and putting them in charge of watering your spices will get them involved.

In the free report that you downloaded, there are many spices to choose from. You can start by growing your own garlic and fennel, just to get the feel for it, if you are not already a "green thumb," gardener.

Alright then. I will leave you to your planting and stay tune for my next informative email.

SUBJECT: "Let's Talk About Another Immune System Helper"

BODY:

Hey,

{YOUR NAME} here and I want to talk to you about another spice today.

In your free report, you got a list of 25 spices with powerful health benefits. I thought that you would enjoy a bonus spice called, "Allspice." This spice is often confused and people think that it is 3 or 4 spices combined. It is in fact, just one spice made from the berries of small tree. It goes by many names, including, "Jamaica Pepper."

It is extremely healthy and has a taste similar to cinnamon and nutmeg. Allspice has four medicinal compounds. Using Allspice in your diet, means you are getting antioxidants, anti-inflammatory and anti-viral help...just for starters. It goes with many types of food, including curry and stew. Try it in a cup of tea.

Whew, so many great spices and health benefits that perhaps you didn't know about. Information about maintaining your overall health is so important in today's world. With that in mind, I have something special I want to share with you in my next email.

Stay tuned,

SUBJECT: "100 Natural Remedies To Fix The Most Common Health Problems"

BODY:

Hey,

{YOUR NAME} here and I bet that number 100 caught your eye. I'm not surprised because the eBook I put together for you is jam packed with solutions. Everyone is looking for solutions to problems and if health is something you think about a lot...well I've got you covered.

The information I put in this book is not some magical hocus pocus. I take your health very seriously and there are times when you need to consult your doctor for the right solution to your unique situation.

But let's remember that our ancestors didn't have a GP to rely on when they got sick. So over the centuries, natural health solutions were sought, tested and used...even on the Kings and Queens of countries.

The eBook will help you to decide what natural solution can be looked at for your health problem. There are times, where you may not need to go for a prescription and in some cases...with your doctor's blessings, cut down on the number of meds you take. I'm sure you will find this eBook not only informative but fun to read.
